

TEMPLETON: After the Supreme Court?

MARY JOHN: After the Supreme Court hearings.

TEMPLETON: Did she make any other (unintelligible) to you?

MARY JOHN: Yes, and then I, it bothered me this couple of days and then I phoned her and I told her. I says, Nichol, I says, now I know why church is stuck in your mind, 'cause this popped into my head. So then, that, she says, Mom. Then a couple of days later she phoned and she says Mom, she says, and I said, oh, and I says to her, I says, this is when he choked you. This is, 'cause she's had this, she gets this choking feeling and I says to her and this is when he choked you. This is what. And then she, so then she didn't remember, couple days later she phoned me and she says Mom, that's right, she says when I was running, she says, he grabbed the hood of my jacket and (unintelligible) and I remember that jacket did have a hood on it. Now this is after the fact, but, so.

MICHAEL JOHN: After she had been gone to that . . .

MARY JOHN: After she had been gone to the Supreme Court.

MICHAEL JOHN: Hypno, hypno, no, no, this is after when she seen that hypno, hypnotist in Vancouver, wasn't it?

MARY JOHN: Yeah, but it was after the Supreme Court, it was after, no this is why I saw her choking. This is why I saw her choking. She's had this choking feeling.

DYCK: Okay, you're, explain this again about the choking.

MARY JOHN: She, when she, I remember her saying this, you know, twenty four years ago, whatever, and then she was running, and she was running to the church and he ran after her. And he grabbed her, now this is how it comes, but she had, he had grabbed her and he was choking her and that was, this is why she gets this choking feeling. When she really gets upset she gets this choking feeling. She just, you know.

TEMPLETON: She told you that.

MARY JOHN: He grabbed her hood of her jacket. Grabbed the hood of her jacket. It's word association I guess, I don't know, I just.

TEMPLETON: What else have you talked about with Nichol concerning this?

MARY JOHN: Well, I've always said to her, I've always maintained he's guilty and she has always, you know, just. She's been deathly afraid of him, she's been deathly afraid of him.

DYCK: Did you ever ask Nichol if David had killed Gail Miller?

MARY JOHN: I must have at sometime but I can't, you know, like I said, when she said she scraped the windows she saw him stabbing. She saw him, you know. But then when I word associated, we word associated this here list last summer, it was David grabbed my hood of my jacket. So.

TEMPLETON: Did she ever talk about the person that he was stabbing? Did she ever describe that person?

MARY JOHN: No, no, she, all I can remember her saying is he was over her, he was, he was over her. She was laying there and he was over her. That's.

TEMPLETON: Did Nichol ever mention to either one of you some of her thoughts that, about a girl in the car?

MICHAEL JOHN: No.

MARY JOHN: No.

MICHAEL JOHN: Another girl besides herself, you mean? No.

TEMPLETON: Yes.

MICHAEL JOHN: No.

MARY JOHN: No, I don't ever remember that. I remember her saying about Ron Wilson coming back, and she was screaming he killed her, he killed her. And he, Ron Wilson slapped her and told her keep quiet. That's, I can remember that. But then, so where that comes from, I don't know, I don't . . .

TEMPLETON: Did she ever indicate if Ron Wilson had any knowledge of what had occurred?

MARY JOHN: Well, this is what I'm to mean. This is. He said
